DETAILED ACTION

Receipt of applicants' amendments and remarks submitted December 27, 2001 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections 35 U.S.C. 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

2. Claims 26-28, 30 and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Johnston (U.S. Patent 5,565,225) for reasons set forth in the prior office action.

Claim Rejections 35 U.S.C. – 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 26-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnston (US 5,565,225) in view of Lange et al. (U.S. 5,296,243) and in further view of Robbins et al. (CAPlus abstract, AN 1972:111657) and Aspinall et al. (Caplus abstract, AN 1956:30292) for reasons set forth in the prior office action.

Art Unit: 1617

Claims 26-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bolles et al. (US 4,834,989) and Camburn (US 5,552,175) in view of Witt et al. (US 4,241,183) for reasons set forth in the prior office action.

Applicants' amendments and remarks submitted December 27, 2001 have been fully considered, they are persuasive with respect to the specification objection and rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112, but are not persuasive for the rejections under 35 U.S.C. 102 and 103 for reasons discussed below.

Applicants traverse the rejection under 35 U.S.C 102 over Johnston on the ground that Johnston particularly teach for treatment of allergy induced diarrhea and the instant claims are generic to all diarrhea. It is noted that a claim is anticipated if any species encompassed by the claim is anticipated.

Applicants mention that "there are great technical problems in preparing food stuff with malt (except beer) in order for them to be palatable or suitable for industrial methods of preparation" It may be true. However, Johnston teaches the employment of foodstuff prepared from malted grain, particularly, malted barley. Instant t claims do not have any limitation with respect to the composition employed in the method which would distinct the composition from prior art.

Applicants traverse the rejection of 103 over Johnston in view of Lange et al. and in further view of Robbins et al. and Aspinall et al. on the ground that Johnston particularly teach for treatment of allergy induced diarrhea and the instant claims are generic to all diarrhea. This argument is not probative as discussed above. Applicants further argue that Aspinall reference and Robins reference do not teach the composition of free amino acids of the malting of the cereals. The arguments are not persuasive. Particularly, Robins expressly teaches analysis of amino acid in the malted barley. Aspinall teaches that polysaccharide has been digested by enzyme. One of ordinary skill in the art would have reasonably expected the presence of sugar in malted barley.

Applicants assert that the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103 over Bolles et al. and Camburn in view of Witt et al. is improper because the cited reference do not teach regulating the flux of fluid and electrolytes in the intestine. The assertion is improper. Note the rejection rely on the fact that claimed invention would read on the practice as suggested by the cited prior art, i.e., people consume the foodstuff taught by Bolles reference and Camburn reference. Applicants provide no argument or factual data to distinct the claimed invention from the practice as suggested by the cited prior art, i.e., people consume the foodstuff taught by Bolles reference and Camburn reference. Note the foodstuff of Bolles and Camburn are made from malted cereal and are made for human consumption. As stated in the prior office action It is well settled patent law that mode of action elucidation does not impart patentable moment to otherwise old and obvious subject matter. Applicant's attention is directed to In re Swinehart, (169 USPQ 226 at 229) where the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals stated "is elementary that the mere recitation of a newly discovered function or property, (regulating the flux of fluid and electrolytes in the intestine) inherently possessed by thing in the prior art, does not cause a claim drawn to those things to distinguish over the prior art."

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 1617

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
